Cookies Policy

Cookies are small text files that are placed on your computer, mobile or handheld device by websites that you visit. They are widely used in order to make websites work, or work more efficiently, as well as to provide information to the owners of the site.

If you do not wish to receive cookies you can easily modify your web browser to refuse cookies, however, you may not be able to use all the interactive features of our site if cookies are disabled. A cookie in no way gives us access to your computer or any information about you, other than the data you choose to share with us.

You can find out more about cookies, and how to control them here:
<https://www.aboutcookies.org>.

www.oakhill.ac.uk makes use of the following cookies:

Accept Cookies

This cookie stores whether you have dismissed our Cookie warning message to avoid showing it again on future visits to our website.

Analytics

These cookies are used to collect information about how visitors use our site. We use this information to compile reports and to help us improve the site. The cookies collect information in an anonymous form, including the number of visitors to the site, where visitors have come to the site from and the pages they visited. Click here for more information about Google Analytics Privacy.

We also use Mouseflow to review behaviour of users on the site anonymously. Click here for their privacy policy.
